DESCRIBING A COMPANY

Tips for describing a company...

01

GENERAL INFO ABOUT THE COMPANY

- ✓ Here we should mention the name of the company, brand, logo, location, values, etc.:

The company is called “Vision”.

In 2003, McDonald’s added “I’m lovin’ it” to its slogan.

The company has its headquarters near San Francisco in California.

The head office of the company is in Flagstaff, Arizona.

We have an effective business model.

Innovation is really important for this company.

02

COMPANY STRUCTURE

- ✓ The structure is very important in the description of a company:

The company has a president and many managing directors.

There are eight different departments, each with its own director.

The Marketing and Sales department consists of the sales team, and customer services.

The Administration department and Human Resources have around 80 people.

We employ more than 2000 people worldwide.

03

THE BEGINNING

- ✓ We describe the beginning of a company as its founding. We often use the passive voice, unless we are stating who founded the company, we can also add here a brief profile of the founders:

We were founded / set up / established in 1981.

The company was founded / set up / established in 1925.

Jeff Bezos founded Amazon in 1994.

04

IMPORTANT EVENTS

- ✓ We describe the important events of the company (merger, splits, acquisitions, changes, innovations, product launches, etc.):

The company merged with its competitor in 2005.

It split into six divisions.

We set up a subsidiary in Chile.

The managers introduced the new logo.

The new product appeared in the market in 2021.

We are now researching VR technologies.

IMPORTANT EVENTS

- ✓ We often show important events using a timeline or mentioning the milestones. Company history timelines are typically organized chronologically, and it is a good idea to use photos to illustrate the company's history:

05

PRODUCTS

- ✓ We describe the type of products or services the company sells or offers:

We make / produce smart phones.

The company produces car components.

The company manufactures airplane parts.

It supplies glass products.

We develop environmentally friendly vehicles.

We are developing new software for the internet.

06

VISION - PLANS

- ✓ We can mention the vision or plans a company has for the future:

We want to create a cheap and useful product.

The company's vision is to become famous overseas.

The new app will serve as an effective communication tool.

We hope to help our customers in the future with this new service.

The company will open a new warehouse next year.

GIVING ORAL PRESENTATIONS

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION

Convey your message clearly and concisely and in that way you will achieve the objectives of your presentation. This makes it easier for the audience to follow and understand your message.

CRITICAL THINKING

Analyzing and evaluating information, arguments and ideas enables you to create well-reasoned and persuasive presentations. By using critical thinking in your presentation preparation, you can develop a more thoughtful, engaging clear and coherent message that effectively conveys your ideas.

■ SYNTHESIZING & ORGANIZING

This ability means to take complex information and break it down into manageable parts, then organizing those parts in a logical and effective manner. To develop these skills create outlines, mind-maps or flowcharts for different topics.

■ STRESS MANAGEMENT

Stress management skills are essential for delivering a great presentation. Use mindfulness exercises, rehearse your presentation and be well prepared in order to manage stress and stay calm during the presentation.

■ TIME MANAGEMENT

Managing time effectively allows you to deliver your message within the allotted time frame. To develop time management skills use a timer during practice runs, create a very clear schedule and be aware of time available during the entire presentation.

■ FACILITATION

They are particularly important for interactive presentations or training sessions. A skilled facilitator guides, manages, and supports group processes, discussions, and collaborative problem-solving.

■ STORYTELLING

Storytelling is the art of conveying messages through narratives such as stories, anecdotes and examples. This ability is relevant to give your message and connect with your audience.

■ DESIGN AND VISUALIZATION

This skill involves creating clear, concise and visually appealing slides, charts, graphs or other visual aids that support the presentation's content. Pay attention to color schemes, typography, layout, and other design elements, and consider how you can apply these techniques to your own presentations.

■ TECHNICAL SKILLS

It involves the ability to use software and tools that are necessary for creating visual aids and delivering the presentation. Familiarity with presentation software, such as PowerPoint, Google Slides, Prezi and other relevant technology is crucial for creating visually appealing presentations and avoiding technical issues.

■ STAGE PRESENCE

It includes verbal and non-verbal communication, such as tone of voice, body language and eye contact. Adopt confident body language, this not only projects confidence to your audience but can also help you feel more self-assured and relaxed.

■ SALES & PERSUASION

The ability to use persuasive techniques to influence your audience and convince them of your point of view is crucial for achieving your presentation goals. This involves using convincing arguments, evidence, and rhetorical techniques.

■ AUDIENCE MANAGEMENT

Observe and interact with your audience, adjust your delivery as necessary and be attentive to their needs and interests. Being able to effectively address audience questions, concerns, or objections is crucial for a successful presentation.
