ADVERBS OF FREQUENCY

EXPRESSIONS OF

ADVERBS OF TIME

- An adverb of frequency shows you the frequency of some action or event. Some adverbs of frequency or expressions of time are definite and some indefinite.

They tell exactly the frequency of something. They go at the end of the sentence:

I go to the dentist every month.

They do not show the exact frequency. They give general information:

I often go to the dentist.

I always study after class.

She usually walks to work.

They generally / normally get good marks.

I often / frequently read after dinner.

I sometimes sing in the shower.

We occasionally go to bed late.

He seldom puts salt on my food.

I hardly ever / rarely get angry.

We never study in the morning.

Subject + Adverb + Main Verb
Daniel always passes his exams.

Subject + BE + Adverb
He is always happy.

Adverbs of Frequency

The position of these adverbs is:

Before the main verb:

I always get up at 6.45.

Peter can usually play football on Sundays.

After a form of "to be": am, are, is (was, were):

Susan is never late.

I'm always at home on Saturdays.

The adverbs often, usually, sometimes and occasionally can go at the beginning or at the end of a sentence for emphasis.

Sometimes I go swimming.

Often we surf the Internet.

We read books occasionally.

Adverbs of time

We generally use adverbs of time at the end of the sentence:

They play video games in the evening.

I get up at 6 o'clock every day.

She goes to the gym on Monday and Wednesday.

- ❑ Remember the use of prepositions with adverbs of time:

Prepositions of Time
in	• the morning • the evening • February • (the) spring • 2013 • a few minutes on	• Monday • Tuesday morning • Wednesday evening • weekdays • time • the weekend (U.S.)
at	• 10:30 pm • the end of class • the weekend (U.K.)

"from... to"

- ✓ Two points form a period:

I study from Monday to Friday.

"till/until"

- ✓ To show duration:

She works till Wednesday.

Wait until 9 p.m.

❖ We can also use other expressions when we want to express frequency. Pay attention to their position in the sentence.

Every day: I eat vegetables every day.

Every week: We meet our friends every week.

Every month: They travel to Buenos Aires every month.

Every year: He meets his family at Easter every year.

(...a day, ...a week, ...a month, ...a year)

Once...: I go on holidays once a year.

Twice...: We go to the cinema twice a month.

Three times...: She studies French three times a week.

Expressions of frequency

- ❑ We generally use adverbs of frequency and expressions of time to answer to a “How often...?” question:

How often do you visit your grandparents?

I visit them once a month.

I generally visit my grandparents.

How often does your friend go camping?

He hardly ever goes camping.

He goes camping once a year.

How often...?
